Let's get ready for some creative fun with frilly border punches and patterned papers! BY PAIGE EVANS

hello, friends! It's Paige Evans back with my favourite tips, tricks, and techniques for making eye-catching and colourful pages and projects!

SHOP YOUR TOOL STASH!

What goes around comes around.

Some of the border punches in my stash I've had for over twenty years! I'm so glad I've held onto them so I can keep creating ruffles on my pages.

THE FOCUS:

Ruffles of repetition is the focus of this issue.

If there is a scrapbook supply that I reach for time and time again, it would have to be border punches! One simple product gives me dozens of ideas, and one of my favourite ideas is repetition.

Just by changing one thing, you'll get completely new and stunning results!

PAIGE POINTERS:

- Layer ruffles down the page.
- Layer ruffles diagonally on half the page.
- Combine border punches for an eclectic and mixed vibe.
- Incorporate a different border punch for a whole new look.
- Trim strips and vary their length and then layer them down the page.
- Add more colours into the mix. For this layout, I've only used aquas and pinks.
- Replace border punches with decorative scissors. Fess up—we know you own a pair or three!
